mothers on "The Evening World" Floating Playground will be brought to a close on Saturday next with an outing to Holmes's Cornwalton Grove, on the promontory at the entrance to pretty little Manhassett Bay, L. I., Like all the more recent outless. more recent outlings, this one will include the uptown mothers and babes, the Floating Playground stopping to take them on at the pier foot of East Sixty-third street, East River, at 9.30 o'clock. As usual, the big white barge will start from the pier at the foot of West Eleventh street, North River, at 8 o'clock Saturday morning, and pass-ing down the North River, around the Battery and up East River will stop at the East Third street ple. at 9 o'clock, proceeding from there up to Sixty-third street as indicated.

The charm of these outings lies in the fact that the poor people who attend pleasures by any red-tape rules; the stand held at 1228 St. Mark's avenue, Brooklyn, children who are well enough to feel ke it romp and play at will, and they are not restricted in their liberty or are encourag d in their play by fifty winging crits, fifty baby scups, fifty horses, thirty baby rocking chairs and other playthings provided by "The sening World" Sick Babies' all day long, and that helps the fun, for all the popular airs of the day are played, and mothers and children often join the!r voices together in singing to Flynn's accompaniment, the greatest favorite being "The World's" song "The Band Played On." The mothire coaxed away from all trouble and worriment as far as possible. There are Mrs. Saddler and her assistant atthe apper deck and Mrs. Younger, Mrs. Brady Mr. Younger and a practical corps of men and women attendants to look after mothers and babes on the look after mothers and babes on the lower deck, which is turned into a dining-room all day long. And here Col. Thaddeus A. Judson, the big hotel-keeper and restaurateur at 1118 Third avenue, has served on each outing a tip-top, nourishing luncheon of tongue, ham, corned beef, botogan sausage and theese sandwiches, eggs, coffee and tea of the best quality, to all free of charge, while the afternoon voyage home from the scene of the day's picnic has been broken by the service of brick ice cream and cakes in liberal portions to every mother and every child on board. So that mothers are freed absolutely from all the petty carking cares that weary them in their awful routine grind in their tenement-house homes. Then the breament-house homes. Then the breament house homes. Then the breament house homes. Then the breament house homes. A lump of hemp acts as a good hydrometer, and when it is damp it prognosticates rain. A coming storm your shooting corns presage, and their lungs are filled with pure, on board the Floating Piayground are deliciously cool in the water breezes, and their lungs are filled with pure, wholesome, healthful air, sweetened by the bouquet of the sea.

Going, mothers are red-hot, weary, wholesome, healthful air, sweetened by the bouquet of the sea.

Going, mothers are red-hot, weary, with the lines of trouble in their poor faces; bables are peevish, restless, pale; toddling children are cross, quarrelsome and nervous. After an hour the bables are sweetly slumbering in the hammock cribs, and the little brothers and sisters are visibly brightening and reviving. Returning, the bables are crowing, the toddlers are busy with play, and the mothrs, cool and refreshed and strengthened by a day sans care and worry, look on with happy, beaming faces, and all are returned to their homes early enough so that papa's dinner will not be delayed.

At the groves, without exception, the proprietors have joined in the good work coach day, and have given the children—yes, and their mothers, toc.

health of the tenement-house poor is difficult to estimate.

This service is a part of the work done by the Sick Bables' Fund, sustained by the Fund and the readers of "The Evening World." Those desiring to share in this work should send money addressed to "Cashler, World. Pulitzer Building, New York." Gifts of clothing are received to the Sick Rables' Fund Clothing Depot, 225 East Twenty-first street.

It is pleasant to be able to say that may be found necessary—and there have been scores of them—and doing a tremendous work in the cause. It is pleasant to be able to see that was literally unable to secure a dead-head audience of the right kind. The managerial rush this year was about as stupid an event as could have habes who have attended these outings, was only the cutting of the scalp of a child who chanced to toddle within range of a baby scup in which another of the service of the Sick Bables' outings in the Floating Playground for the health of the tenement-house poor is office the service is a part of the work done between the ceitmate.

Ignacio Martinetti, who was under contract to appear with Joseph Hart in "A Gay Old Boy," has, it appears, "sloped away," with A. M. Palmer's "Trilby" company, where he is playing the part of Zou-Zou. Mr. Hart has something very vigorous to say about Mr. Martinetti, and it is quite likely that there will be injunctions brought to bear upon the case. Mr. Martinetti's Summer struggle with Zou-Zou evidently pleased him too well.

Another managerial competition. To-night "The Prisoner of Zenda" opens at the Lyceum and "The Great Diamond Robbers" at the American. The latter was postponed from Monday night, and its production might certainly have been delayed until to-morrow. This is what Mr. Palmer wanted, but T. Henry French declined to submit. "My house is idle," said Mr. French, "and we'll open it on Weunesday."

Howard Gould is 'the name of one of the actors to appear in the cast of "The Prisoner of Zenda" at the Lyceum Theatre to-night. He will play the part of Fritz von Tarlenheim. What a bit of theatrical irony it would have been if Miss Odette Tyler had been in the cast. Would she have consented to appear under such wound-opening circumstances?

Leo Dietrichstein has not, as has been announced, cancelled his engagement with Charles Frohman. The part in "The Gay Parislans" for which he was cast did not suit him, so he will remain with "Trilby" until there is a place for him in another Frohman farce. "Trilby" by the way, closed its Chicago engagement Saturday night and opens in St. Louis to-night.

A huge and exceedingly fragrant bouquet of flowers was placed in the lobby of the Academy of Music the other right for Mrs. Agnes Booth. It supported a very visible card, on which was inscribed "From H. Clay Miner."

During the evening a wag wrote hereath this in pencil, "Opens at the Fifth Avenue Theatre with Nat Goodwin Sep. 17".

Joseph Brooks always has a delightful humor, but he has never been funnier than in that little "syndicate" talk of his the other day. Mr. Brooks has a mania for syndicates. He was interested in one before at the time that "The Merry War" and "In the Ranks" were produced, but it is not known to have revolutionized anything. Mr. Brooks says: "I secured an opera in Parls. It is a musical novelty that has already run there for more than a year. I don't want to name it, for then it

M'ss Billie Barlow was very much put out when she discovered that at Proctor's Pleasure Palace there was to be a feminine orchestra. A song in which she made a great hit in London is called 'Mashing the Band,' and—like 'Georgie'—the interpreter thereof professes an ardent affection for one of the orchestra gentlemen. With a feminine band, of course, the song is impossible, and Miss Barlow feels aggrieved, Perhaps it is just as well. Vanoni and Miss Christina Blessing exhausted the possibilities of the 'Georgie' style of entertainment.
